

Figure 3.102. Fatigue cracking composite index for reanalysis of resubmitted sections.

3.8.3.2. Transverse Cracking

Transverse cracking along the three test sections is generally limited, which makes assessment of the vendor's capabilities questionable. When the vendors submitted the final results it was found that the original and resubmitted analysis were identical, shown in Figure 3.103. Since so little transverse cracking existed in these test sections, no conclusive findings regarding changes in the vendor's sensitivity can be drawn.

Figure 3.103. Transverse cracking rating for reanalysis of resubmitted sections.